Merit Award Given Chairman Of County Salvage Committee

Salvage Drive Showing Results—Award Made to Mr. Voight For 100 Per Cent Cooperation in Collection And Shipping of Large Quantities of Scrap Materials

During the past few days, the United States War Production Board, through their representative, Mr. C. R. Bradley, awarded to Mr. Al R. Voight, Hancock County Salvage Committee Chairman, its merit award for his one hundred percent cooperation in collecting and shipping large quantities of critical scrap salvage material.

Mr. Voight, in addition to his duties as Salvage Chairman for the County, has, through his own efforts, purchased and placed in the proper channels, 62,000 lbs. of scrap iron, 61,000 lbs. of old rubber, and 600 lbs. of copper, brass, lead, etc.

In addition to the above quantities of scrap material that Mr. Voight has purchased, through his own place of business, he has junked and shipped fourteen old automobiles and some twenty tons of miscellaneous scrap iron. In addition to handling his business and the purchasing and gathering of scrap material at his own place of business, Mr. Voight, as County Chairman of the Scrap Salvage Committee, has given his time and effort toward the collection of scrap in Hancock County. He has visited the schools and made talks to the school children, and the results of his work, together with the cooperation of his committee and the teachers throughout the county, can readily be seen when we note the children during the past few weeks, collecting scrap and delivering it to the scrap pile, or calling and asking that trucks pick the same up.

You may note, in looking through the scrap pile, that the children have given up some of their favorite toys, and you may see the young ones using every type of conveyance, bringing scrap metals in to the pile. We have felt that, from the time of the institution of the salvage committees, that one way to make the scrap drive a success was to interest the children of the county. To them goes the credit for the success of the scrap metal campaign. These youngsters, thoroughly patriotic and doing their bit for their country, are working day in and day out to see that no materials that will be of value are overlooked, and seeing that they are brought in and placed in the channels to be made into war equipment and ammunition for the use of our soldier boys.

Hancock County has collected, in addition to the 62,000 lbs. shipped by Mr. Voight, 406,138 lbs. of scrap metal, or a total of 234 tons. This gives us an average of 41 lbs. per person. However, we have only made a start, and in discussing the matter with one of the truck drivers who is gathering scrap materials, we were advised that he is bringing in as much as twelve tons per day. He added that, from the outlook, he felt that it would be many months before he would complete the job of gathering all of the scrap in the county. This is good news, and we feel certain that when the drive is completed, that we will reach our quota.

May we ask that you lend your efforts to the men and women, and to the children of the county, and help them to gather together the scrap materials that are of so much value to our country today.

ATTENDS LUNCHEON AFTER LAUNCHING OF SHIP

FULL-TIME NAVY RECRUITING OFFICE AT GULFPORT

More than 20 boys were enlisted in the United States Navy at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Office, City Hall, Gulfport, last week, according to Chief Luther B. Harrison, officer in charge, who was in Bay St. Louis Tuesday getting the information to local officials that the Gulf Coast area now has a full time recruiting office and is serving those who formerly, for the sake of convenience, were enlisted in New Orleans, Mobile and other more distant points in this state.

"Mississippi has a quota to fill," according to Chief Harrison, "and those Mississippians who go out of the state are helping these states fill their quotas and at the same time are causing their native state to fall short in its effort. Free transportation is offered boys from the local station to the Main station at Jackson and those who enlist here are fulfilling their patriotic desire to serve their state as well as their country."

"There are forty-nine trades open to the man who enlists in the United States Navy, and an individual who serves in this branch of service will find that he is getting an education while he is being paid, and at the same time he is contributing in the 'all out' effort toward winning the war."

The Gulfport station is open every day in the City Hall from 8:30 to 5, and from 9 to noon on Sunday. Yeoman Robert P. Pigford is in charge of the office, and he and Chief Harrison are very anxious to build the local station to one of the largest in the state, inasmuch as this is the center of Mississippi's most populous section. The age limits are 17 to 50, and all papers for applicants, including a physical examination are given in Gulfport.

WOMEN ARMY AUXILIARY CORPS SEEK ENLISTMENTS

State headquarters of selective service announced its cooperation in the program of securing more enlistments for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

500 enlistments are required at this time for members of the corps in Mississippi. It is the patriotic duty of women trained as typists, chauffeurs, cooks, bakers, clerical personnel, and such to volunteer now. This will release the same number of men from such duties, and in turn, lessen the calls upon males by selective service. Certainly, it will stay the day when married men with children will be called. Since the educational requirements are not strict and experience is a necessary factor many should apply now.

All local boards are being requested to contact clubs, civic organizations, and colleges to determine if and when speaking dates may be available in the next few weeks for officers of the W. A. A. C. to appear before them. Their purpose will be to explain the W. A. A. C. to the public and seek enlistments.

Business and professional women's clubs, American association of university women, federated women clubs, women's colleges and schools, as well as other civic clubs and organizations should have time available for W. A. A. C. officers to appear before them. Any requests for engagements should be directed to Lt. Elizabeth Jones or Lt. Mary Le Bow, Recruiting and Induction Station, Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

We are encouraged to give the "soldier women" (W. A. A. C. members) an attentive ear and assist them in their plan to relieve the manpower shortage at this critical time.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO NAME LIBERTY SHIP AS REWARD

In Collection of Scrap Metals, Etc.—Three Children
From Winning School
To Christen Ship

The Maritime Commission in an effort to stimulate the collection of scrap metal, rubber, and rags will assign a Liberty Ship to be named and christened by the school children of each State and the District of Columbia.

The committee for each state will be composed of the Governor, the Chief State School Officer, and the Chairman of the State Salvage Committee. In Mississippi this committee will consist of Governor Paul B. Johnson, State Superintendent of Education J. S. Vandiver, and Leland Speed, Chairman of the Mississippi Salvage Committee.

All children of the State should send directly to Superintendent Vandiver the name that they would like to give "The Liberty Ship for Mississippi." All names submitted by children are limited to the names of distinguished former (not now living) citizens of the State. The committee will submit three names to Dr. J. W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, from the group of names suggested by the school children. From these three the Maritime Commission will approve one.

The State Committee will choose the three schools in the State that have collected the three largest amounts of weight respectively per pupil. The report from each school entering this contest must reach Superintendent Vandiver by October 31. The principal or teacher of each of these schools will then have the pupils select the boy or girl in the school who has been most helpful in the Scrap Campaign. These three children (one from each school) together with the principal or teacher of the winning school will be sent to christen the Liberty Ship. The traveling expenses of the principal or teacher and three children from each State will be paid by the American Industries Salvage Committee.

MRS. LOUIS PATE TO LECTURE AT S. J. ACADEMY

Nov. 4, Three O'Clock In Memorial Hall

Deems Taylor one of the most outstanding modern day American critics of music once said, "Music is the child of the Arts" and it is around this child, who is sometimes tearful, sometimes cheerful, that Mrs. Pate will center her lecture on November 4, in which she will share with us her vast store of knowledge in music, when she will tell us of "Operas in the Americas."

Mrs. Pate has a musical background of three generations, besides having lived in a musical atmosphere and environment since babyhood days, as a resource from which to draw upon.

Her grandmother was a concert pianist, having been the only pupil of a great English organist. Her mother again was a finished concert pianist—the Convent Gardens having been chosen as the place for her debut.

Mrs. Pate is an Mus. D. having distinguished herself at the Baumgarten conservatory in her own Montevideo, Uruguay. She has been a very successful educator in music, since her pupils have all become recognized pianists.

Her travels also enabled her to bring in many interesting personally connected notes and anecdotes

In opera houses in this educational and beautiful discourse on operas in the Americas.

This lecture is sponsored by the S. J. A. Mothers' Club, Mrs. John Green, Jr., president, who cordially invites all those interested to attend.

At the general election on November 3rd, the voters will decide whether an amendment is to be added to the Constitution which will provide that the Board of Trustees of the State Institutions of Higher Learning shall be composed of twelve members whose terms are staggered so that each incoming administration will only select four of the members. The amendment also assures an equitable distribution of the membership over the State since one member is to be selected from each congressional district, one from each Supreme Court district and two from the State at large.

If the amendment is adopted, the system of selecting trustees will be on a permanent basis. The Amendment, being a part of the Constitution will not be subject to legislative change. Since no one administration will name more than one-third of the membership, the amendment should go far to remove these institutions, dedicated to the education of the boys and girls of the State, from possibilities of political control and domination. At the same time the welfare of the institutions require an inflow of new blood into the governing authority, and this result is attained by the selection of four new trustees during each administration.

Apparently there is little opposition to the amendment. However, those who have the interest of our University and State College at heart should not assume that it will be easy to secure its adoption. It is difficult to amend the Constitution. Before an amendment may be added, it must be approved by two-thirds of both houses of the Legislature, on three separate days in each house. It must then go to a vote of the people. At the election it must receive a majority of all the votes cast at the election—not simply a majority of those voting on the amendment. All past experience shows that the average voter who is not informed before he goes into the booth will not take the time to read and study an amendment while in the booth. In most cases the voter decides to omit voting on the amendment, and under the law is counted as voting against it.

Surely the citizens of Mississippi, for the sake of all our boys and girls, should take an interest in this matter; surely alumni and the friends of the University, M. S. C. W., Mississippi State, Mississippi Southern, and Delta State should bestir themselves from now until November 3rd in informing the voters of the amendment, and in developing such interest that the difficulties will be overcome, and the approval of the amendment secured by a large majority. It will be a sad day for democracy should the citizens of this state by their indifference and neglect, fail to go to the polls November 3rd and thus lose the opportunity now offered to secure the wholesome reform provided by the amendment.

Governor Reduces State Tax Levy

Under the authority conferred upon him by Chapter 117, Laws of 1942, Gov. Paul B. Johnson has, by proclamation, reduced the ad valorem tax rate in the state for the year 1942 from four mills to two mills. This action was taken by the Governor after careful study of the report submitted to him by the State Auditor, J. M. Causey, the State Treasurer, L. S. May, and the Chairman of the State Tax Commission, A. H. Stone, stating that in their opinion it would be safe to take such action. The reduction will lower the income from ad valorem taxes for 1942 by about $850,000. Tax collections for 1942 have been well above the 1941 income and at the present time the state treasury holds a balance of several million dollars.

FIRE DESTROYS GARAGE

A garage and its contents were destroyed by fire Friday at the home of Mrs. Mary Phene Vetter on the Jordan River. Before the blaze had been brought under control, damage estimated at $8,000 had been done.

Destroyed in the fire were two cars, garden and chicken equipment, washing machine, and other instruments. The second floor of the garage was used as servants' quarters and heavy personal losses were suffered by the maid and gardener. The family was not in town at the time of the accident and the full amount was not known.

SOME CORRECTION NEEDED

ONE of the obstacles to the swift and efficient prosecution of the war, is the High Hat attitude assumed by a great many Government workers—both the important and the obscure; which is brought about by an ever expanding bureaucracy, which is bound lock, stock and barrel by miles of red tape.

In Washington, people are brought in to work for the Government from different sections of the country, and are total strangers to one another. A life led in this city is not a normal one. It is not a city where there is a constant interplay of interest, and where one meets, day by day, people in different walks of life, so that there is a constant correction and adaptation of one view point to another. In Washington thousands of people are ardently striving for political, or economic power of some sort. The big men of the Government—the President, his cabinet, the heads of the major departments, are surrounded by "yes" men who are seeking to curry favor in high places, and many of these big men become supersensitive to criticism. They lose touch with the country and with the needs of the people. These men are either overworked, or, in many instances, lack executive ability, in that they devote their time and energy to routine matters, which could, and should be done by underlings, and there is, many times, a tremendous waste of time and effort in making decisions on matters of major policy.

There is a lack of cooperation and coordinated effort in many of the departments of our Government. It has become common place for ranking officials to make opposed declarations on the same subject. The rubber problem is an example. Practically everyone in Washington has had his say about it, and the result has been a vast and needless confusion in the public mind. The selective service policy is still another example. New orders are handed down daily, and very often it is greatly at variance with the one that preceded it. General Hershey, the Director of Selective Service, says one thing, the State Draft Directors say another, and some spokesman for the Man Power Commission, or the War Labor Board, will say another, and then, finally, the local draft boards, which are really the law unto themselves, go ahead and in attempting to follow the many orders, which are in many instances confusing to them, follow the dictates of their conscience and do what they think is best. Much of this could be avoided, if one man issued the orders in a clear-cut manner, and those working under his direction would carry them out.

From experience, we know that when people are too enmeshed with red tape, that it is impossible for them to produce results, and that the machinery of Government is slowed down on many occasions for this reason.

Again, when men are placed in high positions in our Government, they feel that they should do as they see fit and that if anyone should even tend to criticize their actions, that that person is guilty of an act of treason, and this policy has pretty well imbedded itself down the line to the smaller fry.

Heads of departments, who are actually the responsible officials of our Government, should lay down in clear and decisive words, the policies and the interpretations of the laws as set up, and they should not allow employees of their department, or officials who are working under their direction, to confuse the mind of the public by contradictory statements.

The President himself is actually responsible for this condition. He makes all the important appointments of personnel, and he has the power to clean house whenever he wants to, and when these men that he has appointed do not fill the job, we believe that he should have that same courage that he had when he entered office in 1933, and remove those who are not capable of carrying on their job.

We are certain that among many of his appointees there are outstanding men, and that if these men are given sufficient authority to carry on their work, that we will probably see a change in many of the departments of Government, and as to those who are not capable, or who have become too complacent, we feel that they should be removed.

It is all important that all efforts be made to carry on the work of this great Government, removing all obstacles that might tend to slow down the war effort, and if all departments would have perfect cooperation, one with the other, with no lost motion, and with so much red tape removed, our production of equipment and other acts necessary to the winning of this war would be advanced materially.

GOOD LEGISLATION

ON November 3rd, which is General Election Day in Mississippi, voters will have an opportunity to add to the Constitution of the State of Mississippi, an amendment which will provide that the Board of Trustees of Higher Learning shall be composed of twelve members whose terms are so staggered that each in-coming state administration will only select four of the members.

The amendment also provides for an equitable distribution of the membership over the state, since one member is to be selected from each Congressional District, one from each Supreme Court District and two from the State at large.

This is one opportunity that the people of Mississippi have to forever remove the institutions of Higher Learning from the control of any one Governor. Heretofore it has been possible for the Governor to secure control of the institutions by naming the board, and, of course, his board would naturally name individuals who were to teach and carry on the administrative duties of these institutions, who were friendly to the administration, and in many instances, some of the best educators of the State of Mississippi have been removed from their positions, and men with far less ability have been appointed in their places.

Under this amendment, no one Governor can name more than one-third of the membership of the board. Truly, it may be possible that a Governor will still control the destiny of this board, if the carry-overs on the board are his friends, but, by adopting this amendment, it will forever remove the possibility of the legislature amending the law, so that an in-coming Governor can immediately take over the control of the institutions of higher learning.

We are heartily in favor of the adoption of this amendment, and we hope that the voters of this county will try to take time out enough to cast a ballot for its adoption on November 3rd, and you must remember that if you go to the polls to vote, that it is necessary that you vote FOR the amendment. If you fail to vote for, or against, the amendment, it is counted against it, as the law provides that the amendment must receive a majority of all of the votes cast at the election, not simply a majority of those voting on the amendment.

To you who are interested in our State Institutions of Higher Learning, and all of our people should have their interest at heart, you have an opportunity now to remove these institutions from the possibility of political control and domination, and we are certain that you will not lose the opportunity now offered to secure the wholesome reform provided by the amendment.

GERMANS TO EAT IF OTHERS STARVE

HERMANN Goering, Nazi No. 2, furnishes the people of Occupied Countries with the inside tip-off as to where they stand. Goering warns that "if there is hunger, it will be, in no event in Germany."

Frankly, the Nazi leader says that his people will be fed this winter at the expense of the rest of Europe. If other populations suffer, it will "be due to measures by the enemy."

Of course, Goering's policy does not mean that Germans will get plenty to eat. Moreover, he frankly tells them that the German air force is so busy in Russia that it cannot get around to the British challenge in the air. He asks the Germans to stand up under British bombing with patience, promising a day of retaliation.

Altogether, it is something of a feeble utterance by one of the chiefs of Hitler's New Order. Despite all that the German Army has accomplished, the second Nazi admits that Europe will be without adequate food this winter, that the war in Russia will continue into 1943 and that there is no defense to protect German cities and industrial cities from Anglo-American bombing.

ADVANCING IN THE ALEUTIANS

American forces, operating in the Aleutian Islands, have established an advanced base in the Adreanof Islands, more than two hundred fifty miles west of Dutch Harbor, the main American base in the North Pacific.

The successful operation of a large convoy, which occupied the new base, can hardly be scored as a spectacular triumph, but it is nevertheless an encouraging development. The Japanese offered no opposition as the Army completed critical landing operations and set up a useful airfield, able to accommodate flying fortresses as well as pursuit planes.

The Adreanof Islands begin two hundred and forty-five miles from Dutch Harbor, stretching westward for about two hundred fifty miles, the last in the group being one hundred twenty-five miles east to Kiska, the Japanese main base in the Aleutians.

From the new base, bombing attacks against the Japanese will present fewer difficulties. This means more punishment for the Japanese expedition which has already suffered heavy losses from American attacks. Moreover, the new base will present a barrier to any Japanese effort to extend the foothold, now precariously entrenched in Kiska, Agattu and Attu.

FRANCE HITS A NEW LOW

WE know of no instance in recent history that equals the abysmal servitude of the Laval Government, which has decreed the conscription of 150,000 French skilled workers for compulsory labor service in Germany.

France fell into a low pit when her befuddled leaders surrendered to the German invaders. The Vichy Government digs the hole deeper by taking orders from Hitler and selling its own people into virtual slavery.

Waiting for a visitor is just one of the most tiresome ways of wasting time.

We know of nothing more futile than to argue with another man about his religion.

When a man talks too much about himself you can put him down as an ignoramus; he doesn't know anything else that is important to him.

ORTIE THEATER SUNDAY, "ALL THAT MONEY CAN BUY"

With Edward Arnold, Anne Shirley and Simone Simon

"All That Money Can Buy," based on the Stephen Vincent Benet story, "The Devil and Daniel Webster," comes to the screen Sunday and Monday at Ortie Theater, with the advance reputation of being one of the most memorable films of recent years.

Edward Arnold and Walter Huston share top honors in the RKO Radio picture version of Stephen Vincent Benet's remarkable story, with Anne Shirley and James Craig in the romantic leads and Jane Darwell, Simone Simon, Gene Lockhart and John Qualen in other featured roles.

The action is laid in the 1840's in a New Hampshire community. Jabez Stone, a young and newly-married father, discouraged with his continued bad luck, unexpectedly encounters The Devil, locally known as Mr. Scratch. Mr. Scratch agrees to give Jabez everything that money can buy for the next seven years in return for his soul.

This is the beginning of the young farmer's financial progress. A protégé of Mr. Scratch's, Belle, wins him away from his wife.

But as the seven year period draws to an end, Jabez begins to worry about his bargain. In despair, he appeals to his wife, and she lays the case before Daniel Webster. Webster demands a jury trial and Mr. Scratch summons up the jury: Benet Arnold, Simon Girty, Captain Kidd and others of their ilk—traitors, murderers, scoundrels, all. Webster makes an impassioned plea in behalf of Jabez and so moves the jury that they tear up the contract and acquit Jabez, who hastens to make amends for his past.

William Dieterle produced and directed the film for RKO Radio, with Charles L. Glett as associate and Dan Totheroh, writing the screen play from the Benet story which was originally published in The Saturday Evening Post.

Congressional Sidelights

by Congressman Wm. McColmer

Draft of Eighteen-Nineteen Year Olds

In response to the demand of the President and the Army, the House passed, by a substantial vote, and sent to the Senate the bill which will permit the Army to immediately start the drafting of boys between 18 and 19 years of age. It has long been known that the Army was in favor of this, but it was only a few days ago that the President came out with an endorsement of that program. General Marshall, the Chief of Staff, Secretary of War Stimson, and others high in Army policy have stated repeatedly that these youngsters make the best soldiers.

The vote on this bill was the hardest to approach for many of the members of any vote that they have been called upon to cast. No man with the love of youth in his heart looked with favor upon the proposal. Then, for many Members who came up for re-election in November there was the political angle to be considered. But there were many angles other than the political ones which worried the membership. All were ready to call these youngsters into the Army if convinced of the necessity for this action. But there were many members who doubted that such action was necessary. For instance, there is the question as to whether or not it is feasible to build an Army of 7,500,000 to 10,000,000 men and at the same time produce the necessary war materials, including food, with such a drastic reduction of the manpower in our economic life.

Then, too, there was the question as to whether or not it would be practical to supply such an enormous army once it was sent abroad when it is realized that it requires approximately five tons of shipping per year to keep one soldier abroad.

While it makes the heart of many of us bleed to see these youngsters called into service, the majority of the Members evidently took the position that they had to rely upon the advice of the military experts.

Undoubtedly the Bill will pass the Senate, and by January 1st many of these young men will be going into the service. As the Bill passed the House, provision was made for those of that age who were either in high school or college to remain there until they finished their current schooling, or until July 1, 1943, whichever was first. Objection was raised to this provision on the theory that it gave preference by deferment to boys who were in school while those who were not would be called immediately. However, in order for the individual boy to take advantage of this provision he must apply for it. We tried unsuccessfully to amend this provision so as to make the deferment until the close of the school year, or July 1, 1943, uniform and mandatory—or else do away with that provision entirely. For manifestly it is unfair to the boy to require him to ask for the deferment. It is hoped that the Senate may correct this provision.

John R. Steelman, U. S. Conciliation Service, Department of Labor, recently gave out a statement to the effect that strikes had been reduced to a minimum. Strikes in war industries should be cut out entirely. How many men engaged in a war industry manufacturing the implements of war for our boys abroad can strike when we are resorting to the drafting of our precious young boys beyond any patriotic American's understanding. We repeat what we have said a thousand times: "A man engaged in the manufacture of the implements of warfare in this country has no more right to strike against his government than the soldier or the sailor has to desert the colors in time of battle."

"TALK OF THE TOWN" HAILED AS FILM HIT AT A. & G. THEATRE

Sunday and Monday, Oct. 25-26 — Starring Cary Grant, Jean Arthur, Ronald Coleman

Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Coleman are starred at the A. & G. Theatre Sunday and Monday in Columbia's new George Stevens production, "The Talk of the Town," romantic comedy with Edgar Buchanan, Irwin Shaw and Sidney Buchman penned the screen play, and Glenda Farrell, Tom Tyler and Rex Ingram are important supporting players.

"The Talk of the Town" is a motion picture superlatively handled, according to Hollywood executives it has been screened. Columbia's outstanding new romantic comedy opens Sunday and Monday at the A. & G. Theatre. Produced and directed by George Stevens, the brilliant movie-maker of such sensational hits as "Woman of the Year" and "Penalty Serenade," "The Talk of the Town" stars Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Coleman.

The foundations of successful screen entertainment are laid when the script of the film is written. In the case of "The Talk of the Town," the Shaw-Buchman story immediately attracted the attention of all Hollywood, which heralded it as one of those rare properties all too seldom obtained by the motion picture makers. A delightful combination of rich and racy romance, with a suspenseful background of melodrama and action, "The Talk of the Town" generally was regarded not only as a uniquely "different" sort of story but one which, in its final form, was the finest writing effort of its authors.

That George Stevens would capture the gaiety and drama of the story, its human understanding and tense action was a foregone conclusion to a Hollywood accustomed to Stevens' brilliant ability to turn out entertainment-packed motion pictures.

Two automobiles containing a number of naval aviation cadets travelling East to Pensacola, Florida, en route from New Orleans on last Sunday evening collided with a truck driven by Norman C. Gannon, New Orleans, and considerable damage was suffered by the automobiles in which the cadets were driving, although fortunately there were no serious injuries suffered by anyone.

The occupants of the automobiles were Norman J. Coci, driver, and Warren Munch and William Schroeder, all of Jefferson Parish, who were travelling in a LaSalle Coupe. In the other car, a Buick coach, were M. L. Rogers, Fred C. Scales, N. H. Pope, Jack Gibson and J. R. Perez, all of whom gave their addresses as the Naval Air Base at Pensacola, Florida.

Traffic Blocked By Truck Accident

Last Sunday afternoon about 3:30, a traffic accident occurred which caused a delay of several hours during which the wreckage of a trailer was cleared.

A large truck of the Regal Beer Company, with a trailer containing cases of empty bottles, was torn loose from the truck when in some unaccountable manner, the driver, whose name was not ascertained, lost control of the truck, causing the trailer to overturn and scatter bottles and broken glass widespread over the road.

County officials and highway police worked for several hours in an endeavor to clear the highway and get traffic moving freely along the road.

RECAP TIRE QUOTA MORE THAN DOUBLED

Eligibles Urged To Make Application Before Tires Worn Beyond Recapping Point

A supplementary recapping quota of 4,205 for passenger car tires in October, slightly more than doubling the 3,989 already provided for the month, was announced today by the Office of Price Administration, which at the same time urged all passenger car operators who are eligible under the tire rationing regulations and whose casings are worn smooth to apply immediately for recapping certificates to preserve the tire carcasses.

This step, one of a series taken recently by OPA to comply with tire conservation recommendations of the War Relocation Authority, not only will give local War Price and Rationing Boards enough quota to permit the granting of certificates for valid applications carried over from the previous month, but will provide for eligible applicants who have delayed applying until now.

A letter being sent by OPA to the Local Boards points out that no change is made in the eligibility rules. However, the Boards are asked to act promptly upon all clearly eligible applications where the tire inspector's report indicates that recapping should be done at once.

As the purpose of the quota increase is to preserve as many tire carcasses as possible in advance of the institution of the full conservation program recommended by the War Relocation Authority, OPA is urging eligibles who have delayed because of uncertainty over their status, to apply now rather than wear their tires beyond the recapping point. Those who have applied previously and been denied because of lack of sufficient quota are urged to apply again.

With recapping likely to increase as more and more tires used on essential vehicles wear smooth, it is important to get as much of it as possible, done now, OPA pointed out, to avoid future pressure on the limited supply of recapping facilities.

Regional OPA Administrators will allot the new quota among the states, and the State Directors will distribute additional quota among the counties on the basis of expected need.

There was no increase made in the passenger car tube quota, as it is believed that in the great majority of cases tubes now in use can be kept in service.

It's common sense to be thrifty. If you save you are thrifty. War Bonds help you to save and help to save America. Buy your ten percent every pay day.

A Pledge For Americans

I am a citizen of a country where man is born of freedom. I am proud of it.

I take pride in being a free citizen in a free society, but I know that the priceless blessing of liberty is not a heritage, but is won afresh or lost by each generation.

I therefore pledge myself to all those Americans who have gone before me and to all those who will come after me to do my part and to pass on this Freedom.

I will listen to no idle rumors. I will repeat no destructive gossip. I will support loyally and in friendship all the United Nations who are joined with us in this righteous compact to defeat the Axis Powers.

I know my country must win this war, and I will conduct myself as if I alone bore the responsibility for the victory of Democracy. In the words of a soldier of other days, "I will endure. I will fight cheerfully and do my utmost—as if the issue of the struggle depended on me alone."

I dedicate myself to this cause. I swear that to win it, I will make any sacrifice, however great, and perform any task, however humble. So help me, God!
